

“LinearCube as an online service was a perfect combination of what we sought” - Paul Berggren, President

Client

Crown Global Consulting, together with its Crown Educational Services division, serves the employee selection and professional development needs of clients in education, non-profit, and business sector. Crown Associates designs online pre-screening tools and employee selection interviews for client trainings, third party final assessments, professional growth, and other personnel services.

Business Issue

Crown had activities having the potential to generate volume of documents and electronic resources that can easily choke the productivity. As a company, supporting associates in multiple locations, file cabinets were not an option for Crown.

Crown business owners needed a way to gather documents from clients and store multiple forms of client information in a secure environment. In addition to this, they were also looking for features like “easy searching” ability to find single documents or a group of records, and a “wiki” to collaborate on documents in process. Business owners also wanted different access level for each associate based upon their roles and needs. This would also give them freedom to organize their own “space” in the system.

With the above they also wanted a simple process in which they could share the records with other team members.

LinearCube’s Solution

LinearCube’s ContentCube is based upon Alfresco, a leading open source platform for document and content management. Many features and modest cost of Alfresco are attractive, but managing the hardware and software is not an easy task, but with LinearCube this becomes very easy.

About LinearCube

LinearCube's suite of products simplifies online collaboration. A simple online storage solution which has features like email integration, version control, interactive previews and Microsoft® Office integration, make sure users have the latest version of a document wherever and whenever they need it, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week

LinearCube's solution contains functionality like

- Create sites and administer team members who can view a site by an invitation system. It can also assign privileges to those invited
- Provides a systematic and secure file storage process with flexibility to keep documents private or easily share them with team members working both externally and internally
- Records are easily shared by forwarding URLs to each specific record. These documents can be easily downloaded to share, and any team member may upload a new document or a newly created version of a document to collaborate with other team members
- User specific dashboard to customize personal wikis, preferred site storage etc

Benefits

ContentCube has many benefits and continues to grow as client's business matures using this solution

- Robust storing capability
- Hosted Solution , which means almost zero set-up cost
- Version Control
- Secure Access
- Low maintenance cost

“Recommending this service to anyone trying to be more efficient, effective, collaborative, and financially accountable with their document management needs” - Paul Berggren, President
